A party's signature is the mix of two things: how strongly it holds a position (Consensus) and how far that position sits from the country (Mainstream vs. Deviant). Some parties are defined by strongly-held mainstream positions; others by where they break from the national average. Each row is a defining plank for at least one selected party; a column fills only when the plank is part of that party's signature.

Labor · Order and Opportunity Party · Solidarity · Civic Union Party — 54 positions where a selected party is strongly held, where they diverge.
